

New Hanoi Peace Envoy Arrives

PARIS (AP) - A high-ranking member of North Vietnam's Communist leadership arrived to join the peace talks in Paris today and said the second phase of the conferences "can begin without delay" if the United States will drop what he called its "obstinate attitude" and halt the rest of the bombing of his country.

Le Duc Tho arrived here from Hanoi by way of Moscow where he conferred with Soviet leaders Sunday.

The talks here are scheduled to resume Wednesday.

U.S. officials are studying the possibility of a compromise with North Vietnam over broadening the scope of the Paris talks in spite of the deadlock on de-escalating the war.

The clue lies in a statement published two days ago in the newspaper Nhan Dan, mouthpiece of the North Vietnamese Communist party. Instead of saying the United States must agree to halt immediately all attacks on North Vietnamese territory, it says the United States "must first of all clearly acknowledge its responsibility to put a definitive and unconditional end" to the attacks.

Members of the American delegation in the Paris conference are frankly not quite sure what this means but are slightly optimistic. They hope for clarification in the next session or two with the North Vietnamese delegation.

Ambassadors W. Averell Harriman and Xuan Thuy and their advisers will meet again

Wednesday.

Thuy, meanwhile is expected to get the latest thoughts of the ruling group in Hanoi from one of its top members, Le Duc Tho, who was dispatched to Paris.

Tho, a Communist theoretician, will serve here as a "special counselor" to Thuy. While he was stopping over in Moscow Sunday, the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda endorsed the peace talks and restated its support for North Vietnam's position. Pravda made this statement:

"It seems clear there are many concrete problems which must be discussed but there is only one question (ending the U.S. attacks on the North) which must be regulated at first in the present talks."

The word "regulated" caught

the attention of experts here. It seemed much softer than others which might have been used, such as "decided" or "settled".

U.S. authorities were faced once more with a question of interpretation which becomes significant because of the failure of the discussions here over several weeks to shed any new light on any of the problems and issues involved in Vietnam peace making.

"The Communists don't use words lightly in a situation like this," one diplomat said. "And obviously Le Duc Tho isn't coming all this distance just for the ride."

His arrival here follows the return from Washington of Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance, Harriman's deputy, who reported to President Johnson last week on the state of the discussions. Vance said he told Johnson the road ahead looked long and difficult but that he was not discouraged.

He said he brought no new instructions to the delegation here, and he said the President was not discouraged by the difficulties ahead.

The talks are going into their fourth week and six meetings have been held. The sessions have averaged about four hours each and the only progress so far noted by the Americans is that the atmosphere is a little more cordial.

At the last session Friday tea and soft drinks were served during a 15-minute break: It was the first moment of social relaxation in the conference.

Leeman Thomas, 29, St. Louis, died Sunday in Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau as a result of a traffic accident Thursday.

The accident occurred on Interstate 55, three miles south of Scott City, when a tire blew out, causing a car to turn over five times and land in the median.

Five others in the car were injured.

On highway 60, two miles east of Sikeston, Sunday at 10:40 a.m., a right rear tire blew out on a 1962 Chevrolet, driven by Mary Maier, 50, Rockville, Md., causing it to leave the road, enter the median and overturn.

Three were injured. The driver received a broken collarbone and a chest injury. Two passengers, Nellie Smith, 62, and her husband, Victor Smith, 61, both of Evansville, received neck injuries and bruises.

They were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital. Gulf Storm Gathers Hurricane Force

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - Tropical storm Abby developed into a hurricane shortly before noon today and aimed her torrential rains and screaming winds at west Florida's heavily populated Tampa Bay area.

"We are now calling the storm a hurricane," said forecaster Neil Frank at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

"Her top winds are reaching 75 miles per hour in gusts and the storm should reach the Tampa Bay area by late afternoon."

At noon, Abby was centered 170 miles south-southwest of Tampa at Latitude 25.6 north and Longitude 83.3 west. The storm was moving northward at about 15 miles an hour.

Abby whipped up early Sunday, the second day of the sixth month hurricane season, near Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula. Dr. Robert H. Simpson, director of the hurricane center, described development of the storm as a "screwball situation" caused by the merging of a cold front with a low pressure system.

Moving about 15 m.p.h., Abby crossed the western tip of Cuba where she dumped about a foot of rain in 36 hours. Reports from the Communist island said 10 houses collapsed and 3,851 persons were evacuated in Pinar del Rio Province and the Isle of Pines. The storm developed on the eve of a meeting in Miami between U.S. and Mexican officials to develop a mutual assistance pact in tracking hurricanes and aiding storm victims.

Schools were closed throughout the Florida Keys as Abby crossed Cuba and headed toward Florida.

Abby's presence brought a tornado alert and gale warnings from Cape Kennedy, on Florida's east coast, to Tampa and southward through the Keys.

Former Vice President Richard Nixon's GOP presidential campaign was affected by the storm. Nixon chartered two planes and boat Sunday to take a large group of newsmen and aides to Walkers Cay in the Bahama Islands, where he planned to join them from Miami and explain upcoming strategy.

But the torrents of rain and heavy seas prevented Nixon from leaving Miami and stranded the newsmen on the tiny island about 100 miles northeast of Miami.

In Miami, 35 m.p.h. winds doubled coconut palms. Heavy rains flooded streets.

The storm came after southern Florida recorded its wettest May in modern history and heightened the possibility of widespread flooding that often accompanies tropical storms.

In Cuba, doctors and nurses were rushed into Pinar del Rio Province after the storm passed over. There were no reports on how many casualties Abby left behind.

Rocket Fatal to Key Viet Officials Probed by U.S.

SAIGON (AP) - The U.S. Command launched a full-scale investigation today into the misfiring of a rocket by an American helicopter gunship that killed six key South Vietnamese officials Sunday and seemed likely to place new strains on U.S.-Vietnamese relations.

American officials were visibly shaken and appeared concerned about repercussions from the incident. An editorial, anti-American in tone, appeared in the Saigon Daily News, under the heading, "An Accident Too Many."

As the latest wave of fighting in the capital area went into its 10th day, South Vietnamese military headquarters reported that 600 to 800 fresh Viet Cong troops had slipped into the northern suburb of Gia Dinh, 2 1/2 miles from the center of Saigon.

This coincided with an allied communique stating that 1,019 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed in and around the capital during the week ending last Saturday.

South Vietnamese troops, who were said to have done most of the fighting, reported their own casualties as light. U.S. forces listed six Americans killed and 32 wounded for the period.

The rocket decimated the top echelon of the Saigon city administration.

Those killed were Col. Pho Quoc Chu, the director of the port of Saigon and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's brother-in-law; Col. Nguyen Van Luan, the Saigon police chief; Col. Le Ngoc Tru, commander of Saigon's 5th Police Precinct; Maj. Nguyen Ngoc Xinh, chief of staff of joint operations for the national police; Maj. Nguyen Bao Thuy, chief of the Saigon mayor's cabinet and brother of the former minister of revolutionary development, and a Lt. Col. Dao Ba Phuoc, commander of the 5th Ranger Group.

The wounded were Saigon's mayor, Col. Van Van Cua, Col. Tran Van Phan, chief of staff of the national police director; Col. Nguyen Van Giam, deputy chief of the capital military district, and Maj. Le Ngoc To, commander of the 5th Combat Police Battalion.

U.S. Ambassador Samuel D. Berger sent his "deepest regrets and condolences" to the South Vietnamese government and to the families of the officials.

Athletics High Priced

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's like having 280 kids in college at the same time," one athletic director of a large Midwest university groaned. "It's a financial back-breaker."

College athletics are in a money bind. They have become a high-priced, multimillion-dollar business on most campuses. Costs have multiplied in the last decade. Football, once the breadwinner, no longer pays the freight.

Business managers—with a few exceptions, such as at Alabama and Notre Dame—are tightening their belts and putting in new orders for red ink.

Notre Dame's athletic budget has risen from $900,000 in 1963 to $2,000,000 in 1968-69 but it manages to operate in the black. Michigan State has seen its sports outfit mushroom from $147,000 in 1947 to $1,634,000 in 1967, an increase of 1,100 per cent.

In the Big Ten, long the symbol of big time college football, six of the ten members are reported operating at a loss. In the Big Eight, Kansas' budget has risen from $850,000 to $1.4 million in four years.

The sprawling universities of the Pacific Coast are similarly affected. In the hotbeds of the South and Southwest, where bowl teams are spawned, many of the colleges are dependent on booster clubs to keep their heads above water.

At major universities, athletic budgets run from $1,500,000 to as high as $3,200,000, the figure for Ohio State's 18-sport program.

Most of the sky-rocketing cost is purely economic, like the housewife's grocery list. The flashy gear to outfit one player runs around $150, quadruple what it was a few years ago. Jet travel costs more. Hotel and food prices have escalated.

The heavy burden, however, lies in the housing, feeding and educating of athletes on the cuff, so to speak. They are given a free college education for their exploits on the field. In some cases, they are unlimited and run from $1,500 to $3,000 per year for each athlete.

Despite skyrocketing costs, many institutions, in order to keep pace with the escalation of big time college sport, have found it necessary to invest in giant, modern athletic complexes costing millions.

Purdue has just unveiled a new $17 million field house. Michigan's similar plant cost $14 million. Indiana has a new stadium and has authorized a new field house.

Notre Dame is completing an $8.6 million convocation and athletic building. Tennessee has one of the most modern sports plants in the country. Alabama has just opened a Sports Coliseum that makes the Taj Mahal look like Tobacco Road.

"These are not luxuries but necessities," argues a spokesman for the NCAA headquarters in Kansas City. "They are built to fill the needs of an exploding campus population."

Purdue's enrollment jumped from 12,700 in 1957 to 24,140 in 1967. The Big Ten, long symbolic of big time football, has seen its total enrollment jump 50 per cent in six years, with a present average of more than 29,000.

Michigan State has 38,100 students. Ohio State 31,800. On the Pacific Coast, Washington, UCLA and California are pushing 30,000.

Potlatch Opens League Season Tonight

Potlatch's Connie Mack baseball team opens defense of its Black River league title tonight. It treks to Puxico to face Jim King and the Puxico Connie Mackers.

Potlatch, coached by N. P. McDaniel, will play a 15-game league schedule along with 30 other schedule encounters in preparation for the South Plains Connie Mack regional baseball tournament in August to which it plays host.

On the hill for the Mackers will be hard throwing lefthander, Tim Halter, who has pitched a one-hit win over the Poplar Bluff American Legion nine.

Returning off last year's fifth place national finishers will be Mike Garner, Gary Owens, Wayne Limbaugh, Bruce Farris and Roger McDaniel.

Potlatch is 1-1 on the season, losing to Cape Legion Saturday night.

N. P. McDaniel, coach of the Potlatch Connie Mack baseball team will again conduct a summer baseball school.

Workouts will be daily and open to boys of little league age and up.

Information may be obtained about the school by contacting coach McDaniel at 471-4863.

Forty-four athletes have been awarded letters in four spring sports at Arkansas State University, announced J. A. "Ike" Tomlinson, athletic director.

Seventeen men received letters in track. They were: fourth award—Randy Erwin of Little Rock; third award—

Bob Giersberg of Vergennes, Vt.; Butch Brogdon of McCrory, Tony Edwards of Memphis Tenn. and Bill Caputo of Jacksonville, Fla.; second award—Robert Andrews of Little Rock, Billy Bell of Jonesboro, Kelly Parrish of Jacksonville, Fla., Craig Shumacker of Elwood, Iowa, Jack Morrison of St. Louis, Mo., and Barry Garlow of Winter Haven, Fla.; first award—Virgie Ayers of Seattle, Wash., Ken Bowling of Red Cloud, Neb., Thomas Hill of New Orleans, La., Rudy Rogers of Denver, Colo., Stan Vaughn of Cardwell, Mo., and Cleve Warrick of Little Rock. Erwin and Giersberg were named captains.

Baseball letters were presented to 16 players. They were: fourth award—Jim Callaway of Little Rock and Jim Burke of Cohocton, N.Y.; third award—Jim Mueller and Dana Ryan, both of St. Louis, Mo. and John Ford of Hornersville, Mo.; second award—Rusty Bourg of St. Louis, Mo., Criss McGuire of Nashville, Kan. Wayne Pitcock of Batesville, Miss., Bobby Sherrill of Belleville, Ill., Jim Wagner of Manila and Steve Morrison of Little Rock; first award—John Ferrell of Lake Worth, Fla., Larry Moffett of Decatur, Ill., Stan Williams of Blytheville, Robert Wortsmit of Little Rock and Don Lemings of Malden, Mo. Callaway was named captain.

Six golfers were named monogram winners. They were: fourth award—Marlin Shipman of West Memphis; third award—Mike Mitchell of Jacksonville; second award—James Hieber of Jonesboro and Mike Stropp of Malden, Mo.; first award—James Mills of Jacksonville and Kenneth Southern of Wynne. Shipman was chosen as captain.

Five lettermen were named in tennis with second-year awards going to Richard Brooks of Poplar Bluff Mo., and Jack Carson of Helena. First-year awards were presented to Brett Baker of Kennett, Mo., Joel Campbell of Hot Springs and Tim Walters of Jonesboro. Brooks was named captain.

Baseball attendance was down in both the National and American Leagues for Memorial Day attractions.

A total of 167,714 fans saw games across the country with the largest crowd at New York where 28,197 watched the Yankees split a holiday doubleheader with Washington.

Last year seven doubleheaders helped attract 285,918 fans. This year there were only two twinbills—the one at New York and a novel morning doubleheader at Pittsburgh between the Pirates and New York Mets which attracted 19,779.

The nice thing about crappies is they seem to come by the case.

Catch one. Catch a dozen. That's the way crappie fishing goes. This oversized member of the panfish family not only provides plenty of action, but tastes so well in the frying pan that he deserves the attention of every angler who picks up a rod and reel.

Since crappies run in schools, where you find one, you will usually find them in great numbers. The quickest way to locate a "bed" is by trolling a small lure or minnow very slowly, covering a wide expanse of water. Every often they'll congregate in sports offshore where they would be difficult to locate by any other means.

In addition to trying various areas, it is wise to troll at different depths, generally between 6 and 15 feet. Since almost every warm water lake contains panfish, patience will eventually pay off.

When a single fish is located, cut the motor and cast in all directions around the boat to find the main school. When you nit it, you'll know soon enough. Flaties are always hungry. When fishing drops off, this is the signal the school has moved on, and is your cue to resume probing again.

The second way to discover crappies is preferred in some quarters, but frowned on in others. Simply joined up with other boats which are working over known beds. Crappie fisherman, like their quarry, are usually an accommodating lot.

So while trout and bass are enjoying the publicity, sneak off for a day of crappie fishing. This little rascal seldom lets you down.

Cardinals Back On Top; Marichal Books Ninth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A new page in the calendar hasn't changed Juan Marichal's habits, but Willie Stargell and the St. Louis Cardinals are busting out all over.

Marichal became the first nine-game winner in the majors Sunday, shacking Los Angeles on three hits for his fifth straight victory since May 7 as the San Francisco Giants cuffed the Dodgers 5-1.

Stargell, notorious for his June batting rampages, belted six hits, including a pair of homers, and knocked in six runs as Pittsburgh divided a doubleheader with Atlanta, winning the opener 8-4 before bowing 10-5.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, soared back into the National League lead after 11 days off the pace by sweeping a double header from the New York Mets 6-3 and 3-2.

Cincinnati trimmed Philadelphia 5-3 and the Chicago

Cubs took Houston 3-2 in 12 innings in other National League games.

Marichal, 9-2, turned in his strongest performance of the year on the way to his fifth complete game triumph since Houston beat him 7-1 nearly a month ago. The Giants' ace blanked the Dodgers on two scattered hits until Wes Parker homered in the ninth.

Jim Hart and Dick Dietz each drove in two runs as the Giants punished loser Don Sutton and three relievers with a 13-hit attack.

Stargell hiked his batting average 23 points to .302 and grabbed the league lead in homers, with 10, and RBI, with 30, while wearing out Atlanta pitching. The big outfielder, who has homered in four consecutive games, delivered four runs in the first game with two singles, a double and a homer.

His two-run homer and a bases-empty shot by Roberto Clemente gave the Pirates a 3-0 first inning lead in the nightcap, but the Braves, led by Deron Johnson and Felipe Alou, rebounded behind a 17-hit barrage to gain the split.

Johnson cracked four singles and drove in two runs in a Mike Shannon and Tim McCarver backed Bob Gibson's strong pitching in the opener.

Jim Maloney stopped stay. Alou, who had four hits in the first game, contributed three Reds wiped out a 3-2 deficit tying run and scored the go-ahead run in the seventh and singled again in the eighth to start a three-run insurance burst. Roger Maris scored the winning run from first base on Orlando Cepeda's pop fly single in the seventh inning of the second game at New York, enabling the Cardinals to run their winning string to five games and move one-half length ahead of the Giants. Atlanta is one game behind in third place.

Dick Simpson's two-run homer and two-run singles by Shannon and Tim McCarver backed Bob Gibson's strong pitching in the opener.

Jim Maloney stopped stay. Alou, who had four hits in the first game, contributed three Reds wiped out a 3-2 deficit tying run and scored the go-ahead run in the seventh and tying run with two out in the fifth and scored on Alex Johnson's single before Lee May capped the rally with a run-scoring pinch single.

Ron Santo smacked a gametizing homer in the eighth inning at Houston and delivered a sacrifice fly in the 12th after Billy Williams' one-out triple. The victory left the Cubs in fourth place, just two games off the pace.

Plaque Awarded Bud Collins By Little League

Little League Baseball Commissioner Don Miller presented Bud Collins a plaque for 11 years service to the league as a manager. The award by the St. Louis Little League Baseball Association was given in pre-game ceremonies Saturday at Puckett field.

Fabrick stormed past Canvas 16-6 and Police rode the no-hit pitching of Walter Richards into a 7-1 win over Ziegenhorn.

Action will be found at all three fields tonight. League play opens for the National and Musial league teams as well as Babe Ruth at VFW field.

Lewis meets Legion in the 6:30 p.m. opener of the National league at Puckett field tonight followed by the Lions-Jaycees game. Musial action at Farris field has Rotary meeting John Deer in the opener, followed by the Odd Fellows-KSIM meeting.

Keep It Beautiful

If America hired people for the job, it would take the largest sort of army to keep our country free of litter. But there's no need to hire anyone. It's a job we can do for ourselves. All of us. Every family that spreads a picnic lunch. Every boatman who cruises the lakes and waterways. Every motorist who uses our roads and highways.

It is the pleasure of the U. S. Brewers Association each year to give its fullest support to the Keep America Beautiful Campaign. Remember: Every Litter Bit Hurts. This is our land. Let's treat it right.

Don C. Glover, minister of the church, officiated at the candlelight double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with an arch entwined with greenery and bows.

Minister Jimmy Miller and Mrs. Miller sang.

Given in marriage by her brother, Dugless Ray Estes, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Irish linen styled with a scoop neckline and empire waistline trimmed in Alencon lace. A double crown of seed pearls and rhinestones secured her three tiered silk illusion veil.

Mrs. Dugless Estes, the bride's sister-in-law, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Diane Berry, the groom's sister, and Janet Jackson, the bride's cousin.

They wore orchid dotted Swiss street-length dresses styled like that of the bride. Their headresses were made of net and entwined with flowers and streamers. They each carried an orchid gladiola.

Eddy Jackson, the bride's cousin, was best man. Groomsmen were David Hubbert and Don Davis.

The bride's mother wore an aqua tulle and white lace dress with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Berry wore a blue sheath with light blue accessories and a white carnation corsage. A reception was held at the church. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth overlaid with orchid net. Orchid flowers and candles entered the table.

Serving were Mary Kellett, Mary Jackson and Barbara Glover.

Berry is serving in the Navy. Hollow out a small edam cheese mince fine and mix with a little dry vermouth. Pile back into the "shell." Chill and serve with crackers as a before-dinner offering along with tomato juice or some other beverage.

—DE GAULLE SWAN SONG—
Conditions in France are so chaotic that it's almost certain Charles de Gaulle will bow out as President of France on Monday night. He is scheduled to address the nation at that time.

Meanwhile, to combat the increasing anarchy in Paris, French troops have been brought into the suburbs. Even the Foreign Legion, most the hard-boiled unit of the French Army, is on the outskirts of Paris.

What worries Washington officials is that student - worker strikes may spread to Belgium, the Netherlands and West Germany. Almost never in French history has a wage increase package proposed by the union leaders been turned down by the rank and file. The recent wage increase engineered by the powerful CGT, the left-wing labor organization, called for a ten per cent wage increase at the top, with 35 per cent at the bottom. Communist leaders inside the CGT, who have been secretly sided with De Gaulle, wanted the package accepted.

The nine million workers, who have been occupying French factories for ten days refused. Meanwhile, the country has continued totally paralyzed. There has been no mail in ten days, not a plane or a railroad train moving in that period; with red flags denoting Communism flying over many factories, and black flags denoting anarchism flying over others.

If and when De Gaulle exits, Premise Pampidou will try to form a center-left government, though political observers give him scant chance of remaining in office long.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

I'm sure you are aware of the present attempt toward unionization of all federal employees via a change in Order No. 10988.

This has created more stir on Capitol Hill than meets the eye. However, for some reason, the wire services have almost totally ignored the issue. This is despite the fact that nearly forty Senators and Congressmen are actively involved in the bills that will protect the federal employees Right To Refrain from joining an employee organization.

May I suggest that you alert your wire service to the importance of the Bennett and Hall Bills, and request daily coverage. We at Missourians For Right To Work, Inc., do appreciate the way in which your paper has covered the news pertaining to individual freedom. Feel free to call on us if ever we can be of assistance.

Sincerely,

Wet Jinx Continues For Bootheel Cotton

PORTAGEVILLE — E. B. Nace, University of Missouri specialist at the Delta Research Center here, said it will take two to three more weeks before the full cotton loss can be calculated.

Wet, cool weather has reduced the crop by one third and there are some estimates that half the crop will be lost.

Cotton seedlings were beginning to come up when heavy rains hit the state's delta area. Cool weather accompanied the moisture and seedlings were stricken by fungus.

More than a third of the cotton fields have now been plowed over and are being replanted in soybeans, Mr. Nace said. In other fields farmers are holding out, hoping they can get a good stand.

Corn also has been lost and while some has been replanted it is generally late in the area for the crop to be put in.

Grain sorghums are making a comeback with new varieties which are more resistant to fall rains than were crops planted without much success during the 1950's.

The Bootheel wheat crop is fair, with cool weather and wet ground having its effect on yields.

Soybeans saved many farmers in the Bootheel under even poorer conditions last year, providing them with a cash crop after the cotton was washed out.

This year Nace estimated a new soybean production record will be established even though yields are forecast to be no better than average.

Booklet Will Aid United States Tourists

NEW YORK — "What's Going On Here?" is the title of a new 48-page booklet listing summer annual events in each state of the continental United States. It is available free by writing to: American Telephone & Telegraph Company, "Discover America," Box 1492-t, Radio City Station, New York, N. Y. 10019. Or it can be picked up at any Bell telephone business office.

The box number is a tip-off to the Discover America theme of "What's Going On Here?" Lists a couple of the nation abounds in far, whimsical-sounding vents, with festivals, sporting events, music and drama festivals and many other interesting events presented during the summer tourist season. The new booklet lists hundreds of them, state-by-state, with town names and dates. The period covered is May-September.

HemisFair '68 in San Antonio gets a full page, but most events are covered by short descriptions, such as:

CROW AGENCY, MONTANA. "Reenactment of Custer's Last Stand," June 28-30. Real Indians in full battle regalia led by Chief Gall and Crazy Horse ride out to the identical strip of land where Custer met his fate. The Seventh Cavalry in authentic costumes reenacts the battle.

WILDWOOD, NEW JERSEY. "National Marbles Championship," June 16-21. The winners from the 25 regional marbles contests will compete for the national championship.

While better-known and long-established events are covered in the booklet, some of the listings come as surprises. "Steamboat Days and Dixieland Jazz Festival" takes place June 10-15, not in New Orleans but Pella, Iowa. One of the attractions listed for the "Jour De Fete" in Ste. Genevieve, Mo., (an early French settlement) is a German beer garden. Ferdinand, Ind., offers a "Huge Picnic With Turtle Soup" Sept. 1. The Camptown Races are still being run annually in May in Ashland, Va. Tennessee lists a couple of the nation abounds in far, whimsical-sounding vents, with festivals, sporting events, music and drama festivals and many other interesting events presented during the summer tourist season. The new booklet lists hundreds of them, state-by-state, with town names and dates. The period covered is May-September.

Included in the booklet is the name and address of each state's department responsible for tourist information.

The Democrat-Argus

THE DEMOCRAT-ARGUS EDITORIALS

Rogers For Congress

The race for the Congressional seat of Paul C. Jones reached a peak on the deadline for filing for the position when a total of fifteen men had entered the race. Twelve Democrats and three Republicans were vying for the seat.

The one candidate for the job who stands head and shoulders above the "crowd of candidates" is B.F. Rogers. Rogers has had a great amount of experience in government work as he has been Mayor of the city of Caruthersville for almost eleven years and Pemiscot County collector for three terms.

In these elected positions Rogers has worked with state and federal officials to the point that he is well known in Washington as well as in his own state capitol in Jefferson City. He has learned about and worked with many government programs and officials which have given him the kind of understanding that will be invaluable in Congress.

Mayor Rogers is a man who meets problems head-on and has the capabilities to solve them. He does not duck an issue or an unpleasant situation because it is easier to look the other way. He is a man of strong moral character and one who will stand up for what he feels is right. Voters in the Tenth District can rest assured that if B.F. Rogers is elected to Congress he will do everything in his power, and sometimes even more, to represent his people and his District.

The Democrat-Argus is endorsing B.F. Rogers in his campaign for Congress. This is something that has seldom been done by the county paper of Pemiscot County, endorsing a political candidate. But this man is qualified and capable of representing the people in the Tenth Congressional District better than any of the other candidates who have filed, better than anyone we can think of.

Rogers has proved his ability as an administrator by putting the city of Caruthersville on a firm financial foundation after many years of being in heavy debt and not making civic improvements. Rogers has paid off the old debts and has, at the same time, been able to pay cash for a new municipal building, done many miles of street work, built a new city-owned water pumping station, the city is just finishing the largest civic improvement in its history, a massive sewer project which will leave something less than one per-cent of the city with no city sewers, and done much towards industrial development in the city.

Much is said now about the need for industrial development. Rogers has known this need for many years, and has done something about it. He was instrumental in bringing the big Colson Corporation Plant to Caruthersville. Through his foresight and interest, Caruthersville was the first community in the state to use the General Obligation Bond Issue law to attract industry.

The Brown Shoe Company has, since he has been mayor, moved from their old original plant to a new, larger building which is one of the most modern shoe producing facilities in the world. The Caruthersville Shipyard has come to Caruthersville. Industrial development is not new or unknown to B.F. Rogers.

He is a successful businessman, having owned and operated a farm equipment dealership, an auto agency, a grocery store, rental property, and is presently engaged in his first love, farming. By sending Rogers to Washington District farmers can rest assured that he will support their best interests because he is one of them.

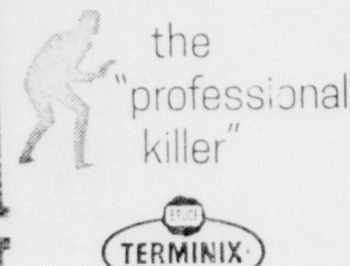

Rogers is thrifty with tax money as can be shown by the fact that even with all of the improvements the city of Caruthersville has experienced since he has been mayor, there has been no city tax increase. City employees have been given pay raises and city operating expenses have gone up in his almost eleven years as mayor, and with the help of his city council, these things have all been paid for, still, with no increase in city taxes.

B.F. Rogers is the man to fill the seat of Paul C. Jones in Congress. He can help the Tenth District in many ways. All he needs is the opportunity to show what he can do for the District.

Violence at Columbia underscores a drastic change on the American scene in recent years — transformation of the college campus from an academic retreat insulated from the turmoil of the world outside to a hotbed of increasingly violent "activism." Causes of student action vary from serious national issues such as race and Vietnam to various definitions of student rights to a sit-in supporting pay increases for campus service employees (at Duke). conducting an extensive advertising campaign in national magazines to promote Missouri, it has also been encouraging Missourians to see their own state first.

To supplement the ads that ran in 300 Missouri newspapers, the Commission has begun spot television and radio ads. Davis said that advertising within the state's boundaries is an area that needs attention and "there has been a great lack in the past of encouraging travel in the state by our own residents."

Davis emphasizes the fact that this increased spending is in no way wasteful. "Money that is intelligently spent is not an expenditure, but an investment." He is encouraged by the fact that the people are starting to realize what promoting Missouri can mean in long-range increased revenue.

Although he realizes that Missouri cannot have a year-round tourist season like California or Florida, he wants to see it increased to at least eight or nine months. Davis will try to begin a fall tourist season in Missouri, built around the theme "See Missouri When It Is Most Beautiful." The campaign will be aimed solely at Missourians, encouraging them to get out and see Missouri in autumn and to also get in some late season fishing.

FEDERAL FUND ASSIST GIVEN FOR STATE'S RECREATION AREAS

Many outdoor recreation areas in Missouri are being developed now with matching money from the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund.

The State Inter-Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation, made up of the heads of 13 state agencies, meets once a month this year to consider applications from state agencies and local governments seeking federal recreation money.

Since the Council was formed in 1966, it has approved more than $4 million in grants, half of that total going to local funds for its project. If an application is approved by the State Inter-Agency Council, it is forwarded to the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation in Ann Arbor, Mich. If federal approval is granted, the funds are sent to the Council to be passed along to the local government. Expenses of administering the grants are paid by the state.

A. Basye Vanlandingham II, project consultant, said the Council gives priority to requests for funds to acquire land. At present there is a backlog of applications for more than $1 million in projects that have to yet be funded.

"We welcome applications for these federal matching funds, but there is now a one to two year wait," Vanlandingham said. "The best chance a local government has to get its application approved and receive a grant is to ask for funds for land acquisition."

REGIONAL PARKS PLAN NOW IN OPERATION

Early last month, Governor Warren E. Hearnes dedicated the first of three newly created regions of the Missouri State Park Board, at Brookfield. Other regional centers at Festus and Lebanon will be dedicated later.

Under the new regional plan, three supervisors will be responsible for the planning, organizing and direction of maintenance of the parks under his supervision. Hearnes cited this as an effort to get the government closer to the people. Gov. Hearnes said the statewide park program has been expanded greatly in the past few years which increased funds and a record number of park visitors. Funds have also been provided for a new Park Ranger program whereby rangers will be available to assist and protect guests to make their visit more enjoyable.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

"Do you seek great things for yourself? See them not."
(Jeremiah 45:5, RSV)

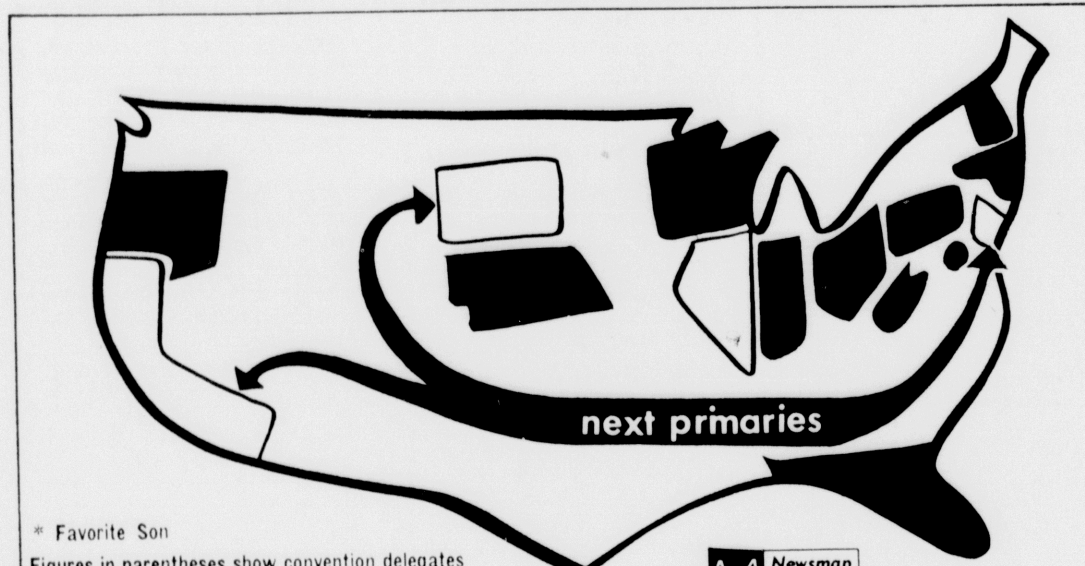

PRAYER: Lord, make us attentive to Thy voice, obedient to Thy summons, dedicated to Thy purposes for mankind. In the spirit of the Savior we pray. Amen.

Daughter Told to Tell Mother to Omit Gloom

Dear Ann Landers: Right now my head feels as if it will burst. My mother just left. I need to know what to do about her daily visits which leave me depressed, drained and half sick.

The minute Mother sits down she begins to report on the illnesses and tragedies of relatives, friends and neighbors. Every story she tells is like a movie. She has an eye and an ear for detail that is uncanny. Mother makes you feel every ache and pain of the person she is describing. She'd rather go to the hospital to see a sick person than go to a party.

Last month Mother attended seven funerals. (Only one was a relative.) Right now I am so down in the dumps I could die. I can do nothing to alleviate her hairdresser's agony (her small daughter is dying of leukemia). I can't help her neighbor whose only son lost both legs in Vietnam. Last week Mother awakened me at midnight to tell me about a car accident in which four people were killed. She had heard it on the radio. I didn't know the people and neither did she — but "Isn't it AWFUL?"

I love my mother and I don't want to be disrespectful, but I just can't listen anymore. Do I owe it to her? Would I be a bad daughter if I told her I didn't want to hear her daily reports of tragedy and death? Please advise me, Ann. — BLUER THAN BLUE

Dear Blue: Each of us knows someone who thoroughly enjoys being first with the bad news. When that person is your mother the problem becomes compounded because you cannot lop off a mother as you would a pesty neighbor or a boring friend.

Tell Mary Sunshine her continuous recital of gloom and doom is making you ill and she'll just have to spare you. When she starts again tell her you'd prefer not to hear any more sad stories and then change the subject.

Dear Ann Landers: I've always had an odd feeling about Phi Beta Kappa keys dangling from watch chains. They seem to say, "Look at me. I am smart." (Worse yet, in my opinion, is the woman who wears her Phi Beta Kappa key on a chain around her neck.)

But what do you think about a 40-year-old man who wears his Phi Beta Kappa key as a lapel pin? Isn't this tasteless? It really

knocked me out. How about you? —GALATEA

Dear Gal: Corny, yes. But it doesn't knock me out. I'm mystified as to why you attach so much importance to it. Confidential to This Time

It's Real: It's natural for teenagers to want to learn from experience but divorce is one experience you can live without. If it's real it will still be real two years from now. Wait.

Confidential to Don't Need Glasses: It sounds as if you don't need glasses because you drink straight from the bottle. Your letter contained a half-dozen contradictions and it even smelled of bourbon. Write again when you're sober, please, and I'll help you if I can.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with — but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were the Judge

Unconscious Person Cannot Be Responsible

Herman was in the habit of getting his exercise and his rest at the same time. An inveterate sleepwalker, he was apt to get up in the middle of the night and go do-si-doing off for a little stroll. One one such night, however, he took along a gun. And, meeting a latrine on the street, he shot him.

In a matter of minutes, the police were on the scene and sleepwalking Herman was hauled off to jail charged with shooting the hapless late-nighter.

"We caught him red handed," the police pointed out in court. "The gun was still smoking when we nabbed him." "While I may have been holding the gun," was Herman's answer, "it wasn't me who shot it. It was my subconscious that pulled the trigger. Certainly, a man can't be blamed for what he does when he's walking in his sleep?"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you jail Herman for shooting the latrine?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that it is a well recognized principal of criminal law that if a person is unconscious at the time he commits a criminal act, he cannot be held responsible for that act.

NEW SLOGAN ON MISSOURI LICENSE PLATES NEXT YEAR

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — There's a possibility that your automobile may carry a good booster for Missouri's tourism trade, if Tourism Commission director Will Davis' suggestion that the name "Varietyland" be added to the state's license plates becomes reality.

"Missouri has something for everyone," Davis said, "regardless of age or interest." The promotion work of the Tourism Commission should make Missouri one of the top tourist states according to Davis because, "We've had a good tourist business, but mainly by accident. People passing through the state see how much we have to offer, then stay longer and often return."

The Commission has spent more than Missouri has ever spent previously on tourism promotion, and plans to spend substantially more next year. While the commission has been

Joseph F. Miederhoff III

Miederhoff Services Set For Tuesday

Services for Joseph Francis Miederhoff III will be at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at Welsh Funeral Home.

Burial will be in Garden of Memories Cemetery.

Miederhoff, 21, died Friday at Memphis.

He was born Oct. 24, 1946, at Sikeston. He was in the navy, stationed at Millington, Tenn.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Miederhoff II, Augusta, Kan.; one sister, Mrs. Phyllis Sue Pace, Augusta, his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Miederhoff, Cape Girardeau; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lois Wood, Bell City, and great aunt, Mrs. Frank Hoeller, Sikeston.

Liquor bottles, shoes and canned food could be seen peeking from many field packs.

Several soldiers passed around British cigarettes, the most expensive smoker's item on the black market. Soldiers displayed shiny new American gas lighters, and some wore gold or silver tie clasps on the front of their dirty uniforms.

Sometimes the looting seems directly tied to how heavy the fighting is, when they are on the move and attacking, the soldiers seem to pass up luxury items although they do scoop up food, soft drinks and cigarettes wherever they find them.

Some of the troops fired bursts from their M16 rifles to break the locks on the steel shutters protecting the fronts of shops in the area.

Many businessmen stuck to their stores to prevent looting even though endangered by the fighting. Since the outbreak of street fighting in Saigon during the Viet Cong's Tet offensive last February, there have been repeated complaints not only of looting but of senseless smashing of whatever could not be carried off.

Vietnamese, Chinese and American homes all have been hit.

The situation has done nothing to improve the government's image or to convince the people of Saigon that the soldiers are their protectors against Viet Cong depredations.

However, there is an added dimension to the looting in Cholon, the Chinese section of Saigon, where much of the current fighting is now taking place. The Vietnamese have always disliked the Chinese because of their domination of commerce. Like some looters in the United States, the soldiers may feel that they are only getting back a little of what has been squeezed out of them in the past.

Nine were admitted to the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital during the weekend.

Treated Saturday were Joan Bartlett of Sikeston, mashed right thumb in car door; Beverly McCleary of Wyatt, hit by car; Lyle Simms, Muskegon, Mich.; 21 grandchildren, 84 great-grandchildren, and four great-great-grandchildren.

The body is at Morgan Funeral Home in Advance where services will be Sunday at 2 p.m. by the Rev. Lawrence Kennon of Bridgeton.

Burial will be in Morgan Memorial Park.

South Viet Army Guilty Of Looting

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietnamese soldier jogged down the street with three radios stolen from a Chinese store on the fringe of a four-block area filled with Viet Cong snipers.

His sergeant across the street hollered: "Hey, you! Where are you going with all those radios? Why do you take so many? You only need one."

The soldier grinned sheepishly but dropped only one radio. The sergeant ambled across the debris-littered street, picked up the radio and tied it to his field pack.

Lulls in the street fighting now going on in Saigon offer an apparently irresistible temptation to the poorly paid South Vietnamese soldier whose idea of luxury normally is a stolen chicken to supplement his poor food ration.

Tank men who didn't need to worry about the extra weight, "liberated" large numbers of radios. One army truck was seen loading up with television sets. Several policemen joined in the raids on the radios and other items.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ellen Caverno Burnett; one daughter, Mrs. Sue Wrather, Canolou; one brother, John Thomas Burnett, Atkins; two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Services were at 2 p.m. today at Welsh Funeral Home in Sikeston with the Rev. Billy Secoy of Kewanee and the Rev. Larry Lone of Matthews officiating.

Burial was in Garden of Memories Cemetery at Sikeston.

Congress Eager for Early Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A weary and uncertain Congress, fearing a negative national mood toward political incumbents, is eager to close out a lethargic session marked by decreasing congressional influence on major issues.

Consequently, Congress resumed work today following a brief Memorial Day break, far behind schedule but determined to finish early and adjourn for the political campaigns.

"Members always talk about adjourning early but this time they really seem to mean it," said one House aide.

Important events beyond Congress' control such as President Johnson's withdrawal from the presidential campaign, Vietnam peace talks, the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and city riots following his slaying have produced wariness and uncertainty in the House and Senate, especially among the majority Democrats. This was clear from numerous private conversations with members.

Although appropriations and other legislative business are far behind schedule, leaders are determined to wind up the session before the start of the national political conventions in August.

Some members are already campaigning.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy showed up in the Senate to vote for a milk protection measure the week before the Wisconsin primary. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has been away since mid-March. Republican Whip Thomas Kuchel, seeking re-election, has been in California since April preparing for Tuesday's primary and Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon was here only twice in May as he fought the contest that last week gave him a slim margin for nomination to a fifth term.

Although much of President Johnson's legislative program appears fated for oblivion, such bills as open housing and interest disclosure have already been passed. Action also is likely on the tax increase, anticrime bill, fish and poultry inspection, higher education extension and manpower training program.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has said adjournment depends on the progress of the appropriations bills.

Only 5 of the 13 money bills for the year starting July 1 have cleared the House, one has passed the Senate and none have reached the White House.

The last time Congress adjourned in August was in 1958. The 1960 and 1964 presidential years featured post-convention sessions of the sort leaders hope to avoid this year.

Chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss., of the House Rules Committee has set a July 9 deadline for his panel to clear bills for the House.

If Congress has to reconvene after the conventions, he said, "We will be harangued with political speeches for the rest of the year."

Some 4,200 youth hostels in 41 countries, from Poland to Pakistan, are operated by the International Youth Hostel Federation.

Former East Prairie Man Dies

EAST PRAIRIE — Warren Edward Cummins, 45, St. Ann, died at 1:50 a.m. Saturday in a St. Louis hospital after a long illness. He was a former East Prairie resident.

Born Sept. 25, 1922, at East Prairie, he had lived in St. Louis county 17 years and was a machinist at McDonnell-Douglas Corporation in St. Louis 14 years.

He was a member of the First Baptist church at Ferguson and the Veterans of Foreign Wars in St. Louis.

On June 25, 1946, he married Genevieve Heppie, who survives. Also surviving are three sons, Warren C. Hazelwood, and Royce D. and Louis E. Cummins, both of St. Ann; two daughters, Brenda Irene and Mary Alice Cummins, both of St. Ann; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Cummins, East Prairie, three brothers, Finley, East Moline, Ill., Charles Ferguson, and Frank Cummins, St. John, and three sisters, Mrs. Charlie Ditto, East Moline, and Thelma and Peggy Cummins, both of East Prairie.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at McKimble Funeral Home with the Rev. G. C. Johnson officiating.

Burial will be in WOW Cemetery.

New Hanoi Peace Envoy Arrives

PARIS (AP) - A high-ranking member of North Vietnam's Communist leadership arrived to join the peace talks in Paris today and said the second phase of the conferences "can begin without delay" if the United States will drop what he called its "obstinate attitude" and halt the rest of the bombing of his country.

Le Duc Tho arrived here from Hanoi by way of Moscow where he conferred with Soviet leaders Sunday.

The talks here are scheduled to resume Wednesday.

U.S. officials are studying the possibility of a compromise with North Vietnam over broadening the scope of the Paris talks in spite of the deadlock on de-escalating the war.

The clue lies in a statement published two days ago in the newspaper Nhan Dan, Communist leadership arrived to mouthpiece of the North Vietnamese Communist party.

Instead of saying the United States must agree to halt immediately all attacks on North Vietnamese territory, it says the United States "must first of all clearly acknowledge its responsibility to put a definitive and unconditional end" to the attacks.

Members of the American delegation in the Paris conference are frankly not quite sure what this means but are slightly optimistic. They hope for clarification in the next session or two with the North Vietnam delegation.

Ambassadors W. Averell Harriman and Xuan Thuy and their advisers will meet again

Wednesday.

Thuy, meanwhile is expected to get the latest thoughts of the ruling group in Hanoi from one of its top members, Le Duc Tho, who was dispatched to Paris.

Tho, a Communist theoretician, will serve here as a "special counselor" to Thuy. While he was stopping over in Moscow Sunday, the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda endorsed the peace talks and restated its support for North Vietnam's position. Pravda made this statement:

"It seems clear there are many concrete problems which must be discussed but there is only one question (ending the U.S. attacks on the North) which must be regulated at first in the present talks."

The word "regulated" caught

the attention of experts here. It seemed much softer than others which might have been used, such as "decided" or "settled".

U.S. authorities were faced once more with a question of interpretation which becomes significant because of the failure of the discussions here over several weeks to shed any new light on any of the problems and issues involved in Vietnam peace making.

"The Communists don't use words lightly in a situation like this," one diplomat said. "And obviously Le Duc Tho isn't coming all this distance just for the ride."

His arrival here follows the return from Washington of Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance, during a 15-minute break: It was Harriman's deputy, who reported to President Johnson last week on the state of the discussions. Vance said he told Johnson the road ahead looked long and difficult but that he was not discouraged.

He said he brought no new instructions to the delegation here, and he said the President was not discouraged by the difficulties ahead.

The talks are going into their fourth week and six meetings have been held. The sessions have averaged about four hours each and the only progress so far noted by the Americans is that the atmosphere is a little more cordial.

At the last session Friday tea and soft drinks were served during a 15-minute break: It was the first moment of social relaxation in the conference.

Gulf Storm Gathers Hurricane Force

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - Tropical storm Abby developed into a hurricane shortly before noon today and aimed her torrential rains and screaming winds at west Florida's heavily populated Tampa Bay area.

"We are now calling the storm a hurricane," said forecaster Neil Frank at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

"Her top winds are reaching 75 miles per hour in gusts and the storm should reach the Tampa Bay area by late afternoon."

At noon, Abby was centered 170 miles south-southwest of Tampa at latitude 25.6 north and longitude 83.3 west. The storm was moving northward at about 15 miles an hour.

Abby whipped up early Sunday, the second day of the six-month hurricane season, near Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula. Dr. Robert H. Simpson, director of the hurricane center, described development of the storm as a "screwball situation" caused by the merging of a cold front with a low pressure system.

Moving about 15 m.p.h., Abby crossed the western tip of Cuba where she dumped about a foot of rain in 36 hours. Reports from the Communist island said 10 houses collapsed and 381 persons were evacuated in Pinar del Rio Province and the Isle of

In Miami, 35 m.p.h. winds doubled coconut palms. Heavy rains flooded streets.

The storm came after southern Florida recorded its wettest May in modern history and heightened the possibility of widespread flooding that often accompanies tropical storms.

In Cuba, doctors and nurses were rushed into Pinar del Rio Province after the storm passed over. There were no reports on how many casualties Abby left behind.

Rocket Fatal to Key Viet Officials Probed by U.S.

SAIGON (AP) - The U.S. Command launched a full-scale investigation today into the misfiring of a rocket by an American helicopter gunship that killed six key South Vietnamese officials Sunday and seemed likely to place new strains on U.S.-Vietnamese relations.

American officials were visibly shaken and appeared concerned about repercussions from the incident. An editorial, anti-American in tone, appeared in the Saigon Daily News, under the heading, "An Accident Too Many."

As the latest wave of fighting in the capital area went into its 10th day, South Vietnamese military headquarters reported that 600 to 800 fresh Viet Cong troops had slipped into the northern suburb of Gia Dinh, 2 1/2 miles from the center of Saigon.

This coincided with an allied communique stating that 1,019 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed in and around the capital during the week ending last Saturday.

South Vietnamese troops, who were said to have done most of the fighting, reported their own casualties as light. U.S. forces listed six Americans killed and 32 wounded for the period.

The rocket decimated the top echelon of the Saigon city administration.

Those killed were Col. Pho Quoc Chu, the director of the port of Saigon and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's brother-in-law; Col. Nguyen Van Luan, the Saigon police chief; Maj. Nguyen Ngoc Xinh, chief of staff of joint operations for the national police; Maj. Nguyen Bao Thuy, chief of the Saigon

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

You might as well fall flat on your face as lean over too far backward!

MORE UNFULFILLED JOBS THAN UNEMPLOYED PEOPLE?

There is a strange paradox in America today. The emphasis is on poverty, "ghettos" and jobless persons. But there are at present probably more jobs available in the United States that remain unfilled than ever before in our history.

The New York Times on May 6 had a headline on its front page which read as follows: 20,000 Jobs Go Begging in City While 135,000 Are Unemployed." The reason given in the article is that "the available jobs and the available workers do not fit each other, so the bare fact of creating more jobs will not necessarily absorb the unemployed."

A glance at the "help wanted" pages in many other cities also shows that day after day the search even for unskilled labor does not always yield results. Numerous families seeking domestic help have given up hope of finding employes through the ad columns of the newspapers or by other means.

If Uncle Sam could somehow organize a national employment system, it would help to fill some of the jobs. It would not, however, solve the unemployment problem. This is because many people do not wish to go to other cities or towns to get jobs. Still others refuse to take work which they don't like.

But the fact is that the jobs are not being filled, and it is the Government's duty to make sure that the idle conscientiously endeavor to fit themselves into jobs before the dole or other forms of relief are introduced.

First of all, the federal employment service ought to be enlarged and employers encouraged to file data on their needs with the federal and State agencies located in many cities. Also, the Government could supply training facilities and encourage private industry to organize special agencies to analyze the skills and capacities of individual applicants in order to determine the work for which they are best fitted.

The U. S. Department of Labor, in the figures given to the press on May 8, says that the nation's unemployment rate in April was at its lowest level since the Korean War - namely 3.5 per cent, which means about 2,500,000 people. But analysis of the figures in 100 metropolitan areas reveals that in the poorest neighborhoods the unemployment rates were high - Negroes at 8.7 per cent and whites at 5.7 per cent. In the better neighborhoods, the nonwhite jobless rate was 6.5 per cent.

The biggest unemployment rate of all is found among teenagers. In metropolitan areas with populations of more than 250,000, there were 292,000 white and 110,000 nonwhites between 16 and 19 years of age who were without jobs during the first quarter of this year. An organized effort throughout the country to find jobs for teenagers is essential.

It happens that more businesses and industries are discovering advantages in locating outside the big cities. Also, many companies experience fewer changes in personnel when their plants are in the less-populated sections. People in business and the professions often prefer such areas because living conditions and access to recreational facilities are much better outside than in the city.

It becomes necessary, therefore, to provide a means whereby segments of the population can move to localities in which jobs are available. This could be considered a governmental obligation. It would cost only a relatively small sum to set up a system for ascertaining the qualifications of the idle persons in the big cities and training them for jobs elsewhere.

Thirty-eight per cent of the nation's population - or approximately 76 million persons - live in the 30 U.S. cities with a population of more than a million in each of their metropolitan areas. Yet these same cities occupy only three per cent of the land in continental United States. So there is plenty of room for the relocation of people and businesses. It is logical to concentrate on filling the surplus of jobs that is being steadily created outside the big cities.

The nation's slums should, of course, be eradicated. But the expenditure of billions for better housing conditions in these areas will not provide jobs for the idle living in them. The better answer is for the unemployed to go where the work is.

Instead of spending money indefinitely for "relief," it would be far less expensive for the Federal Government to set up an efficient system to aid the unemployed in the United States. This would help not only the jobless but the many companies in almost every part of the country which are in need of employes. Unfilled jobs in America today evidently are more numerous than the unemployed men and women who are capable and willing to work.

Some men become such slaves to work that they cannot enjoy liberty.

It occurs to a woman when she looks in a mirror that it is surprising she does not look worse, considering how she suffers.

FAVORABLE EAGLETON TREND

Missouri political observers have been hard pressed in recent weeks to come up with a prediction on who was on first, second and third in the three-man contest for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator. A staff member of The Daily Democrat heard reports in Washington, D.C., recently that Sen. Long had the nomination all tied-up; this was the same city that had Lyndon Johnson ready to seek another term in he White House. In St. Louis, it is generally predicted that Lt. Gov. Eagleton will be the winner; his is the city that predicted Raymond Tucker's re-election for mayor against Al Cervantes. In certain sections of western Missouri, True Davis is seen as the certain winner; this is the same area that predicted Hilary Bush would be inaugurated Governor in 1965.

Despite the clouded crystal balls to date, there was one development in the campaign this week that gave the first hint of a possible winner. That hint came in the form of an announcement from the politically-powerful Committee for County Progress in Kansas City, which has just endorsed Lt. Gov. Eagleton's candidacy for the U.S. Senate. The CCP endorsement constitutes the most powerful single endorsement that any state-wide candidate can receive, for on occasion, this reform group in the state's second largest city delivers up to 60 per cent of the vote in Jackson County for its choices.

We did not believe the CCP would endorse Eagleton, although the candidate himself felt certain of it. Rather we believed the organization might turn its forces loose, since Davis is from the western half of the state and there has been grumbling from that area about the lack of a U.S. Senator from there. Not so. The CCP is firmly committed to Eagleton, and with this endorsement, he now appears to be a certain victor in the state's second largest urban area.

With Eagleton's major support in his home town of St. Louis, plus his enthusiastic boosters in many areas of outstate Missouri, it is possible that the first signs of a winner in this critical race are developing.

With the CCP endorsement in his hip pocket, Eagleton has several other things going for him. The Long campaign appears to be bogging down and Ethical Ed is simply not attracting the kind of outstate support that he needs to go with his Steamfitter and Teamster endorsements. Davis, while spending lots of money and attracting lots of attention, is finding that money can also be a liability, particularly when it is spread so heavily. There are signs that conservative Missourians do not take kindly to lavish spenders in political contests.

We're not advising Tom Eagleton to stop campaigning, but we do believe he can take a measure of satisfaction in his race thus far. A few more favorable signs like the one this week and he'll be an easier winner than appeared possible a month or two ago.

The Daily Dunklin Democrat

"While one-shot cuts in budgets of existing (federal) programs may help to slow the growth of the debt, for long-term stability and protection of the purchasing value of the dollar we need evaluation of programs and assignment of priorities for spending with pre-determined guidelines to place ceilings on spending which rule out deficits," remarked Mr. Garth A. Shoemaker, president of the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey of New York.

Bob Miller reports how a boy explained why he was late to school:

"I was following a slow dog."

That Gateway Arch was dedicated in St. Louis. It is supposed to symbolize the spirit of the pioneers. The gleaming stainless steel arch is an impressive monument and an outstanding tourist attraction.

Those who want to reflect on how it symbolizes the pioneers at the gateway to the west will find it easier if they forget about the delays in construction.

If the pioneers dawdled in settling the west as did the construction workers who built the arch, the region might still be a wilderness.

So much time has been spent in building and completing the arch that many Missourians are tired of reading about it. The distaste is comparable to that of viewing a television soap opera, whose plot has been worn threadbare, or in trying to revive a flagging interest in "Peyton Place" or some other sagging melodrama.

Fortunately the pioneers did not have to deal with jurisdictional and other labor union disputes, constantly inflating costs of construction, strikes and other forms of modern management-labor bickering or argue about how much federal aid would be used in any of their projects.

All of these troubles plagued the building of the big arch in St. Louis and many more.

But it at long last has been dedicated and happily people forget about the prolonged problems of construction.

No one who visits St. Louis will miss seeing it on any day when Missouri's biggest city is reasonably free from air pollution.

A traveling salesman came home unexpectedly after a long road trip. To his complete surprise he found his wife in bed with the next-door neighbor. He immediately ran out of the house in anger.

"There," said his wife, "goes old blabbermouth. Now it'll be all over town in the next fifteen minutes."

JUST DO IT YOURSELF
PASSING A CEMETERY in the wee hours of the morning a drunk noticed a sign that read, RING THE BELL FOR THE CARETAKER. He did just that and a sleepy-eyed man staggered to the gate. "What do you want at this hour?" the man demanded.

The drunk looked the caretaker over for a minute and then retorted, "I want to know why you can't ring the blasted bell yourself!"

Our theory is that if you're young enough to enjoy the stuff you're old enough to need it.

A BREAKTHROUGH IN RAILROADING

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Lincoln's emancipated poor have only paper profits to show; plantation owners get the cash; one Mississippi county reaped $6,809,529 for cutting back acreage and evicting Negroes.

WASHINGTON - The poor people's resurrection city has not been a very happy place these days. For almost a week, rain beat down steadily on the plastic roofs of the beaverboard shacks. The plastic was put there to let the sun shine in. But when there is no sunshine the seams of the plastic drip rain.

The rain might have had a pleasant sound if there hadn't been so much of it; or if there was something else to do in resurrection city. All you can do is sit and think. "Sometimes," said a woman from Georgia, "we just sit."

The park around the Lincoln Memorial is going to be a mess," said one Washington resident.

It's already a mess. The area inside the snow fence which forms a stockade around the shacks has been a sea of mud. It's the same kind of a mess inside another stockade at the other end of the park, where slaves were held in the 1850s when their families were broken up to be shipped to northern Virginia and the tobacco plantations of southern Maryland.

Abraham Lincoln, then a congressman, looked down on that slave market and made his resolve to become President and free the slaves.

The statue of Abe Lincoln looks out today on the stockade in the park alongside his memorial. All night long a light shines on his rugged features, and his eyes have the appearance of never sleeping as he looks out on the city housing the descendants of those stockade residents of one hundred year ago.

He wonders, no doubt, what brought the poor people marching up from the south and what progress they have made in the hundred years since emancipation.

PAPER PROFITS
On paper they have made a lot. Belatedly they have the right to vote. Theoretically they have the right to sit beside white children in equal schools. They can patronize the same restaurants, use the same restrooms, buses, hotels, and railroad trains. The days of Jim Crow are over. But do they have the equal right to make a living?

Are they permitted to enter the skilled labor unions? Are the cards against them when it comes to the land laws?

Above all, they are forced off the land which they have plowed and hoed and cultivated through the generations?

The answers are contained in a thick green volume entitled "Department of Agriculture and Related Agencies' Appropriations - Fiscal Year 1968," which contains the names of the big farmers who are subsidized by the rest of us for keeping their land idle. The book does not contain the names of the poor people who are thereby forced off the land.

Thumbing through these pages, the answer is definitely yes. The cards are stacked against the poor people of the south. The laws are written so they favor the big landowner, not the tenant farmer who is made homeless by the laws written by a congress where the key committee chairmanships, the power establishment, stem from rural areas of the United States.

Thumbing through the subsidy payments made to cotton plantation owners in Mississippi, you get some idea of how things are stacked against the poor people. In Sunflower county there is Mrs. Eastland, wife of the senator from Mississippi, who gets $129,977 in one year for cutting back cotton acreage. There is also W. D. Patterson, who gets $67,600; plus many, many more.

There is a total of 340 plantation owners in Sunflower county alone who received $16,809,529 for cutting back cotton acreage and throwing poor people off the land. And this includes only those who get $5,000 or more from Uncle Sam. Those receiving below $5,000 are not tabulated.

PENALIZING THE POOR

Or glance at some of the other Mississippi counties. They are similar, as are the rest of the farm states. In Alabama, W. L. Corcoran of Barbour county got $54,666. Ben Bowden got $51,226. Emmett Scroggins got $44,786, all for cutting back acreage in one year alone.

In Colbert county, Alabama, 79 plantation owners received $1,042,298 last year, and in Lawrence county 112 farmers received $1,675,310. In Limestone county, 126 farmers received $1,755,642 for throwing Negroes off the land.

Some of the poor people at Resurrection City are Spanish-Americans from Arizona, Texas and California. They too have been put off the land by the agricultural laws. In California, the Giffen Company of Fresno county got $2,397,073, while the South Lake Farms got $1,468,696. In Fresno county, 481 farmers received a total of $18,213,382 last year from Uncle Sam for not growing crops and for putting people out of work.

The roll call is too long to publish here. But it includes wheat subsidies paid to Kansas and South Dakota farmers and tobacco subsidies paid to farmers in North Carolina and Kentucky. Even Puerto Rico benefits. Luce and Company got $518,224 for not raising sugar, while A. Roig Sucre got $349,095 and C. Brewer Company got $308,264. The Puerto Ricans put out of work swarmed up to Harlem to Chicago to swell the tenements.

In Sunflower county there is Mrs. Eastland, wife of the senator from Mississippi, who gets $129,977 in one year for cutting back cotton acreage. There is also W. D. Patterson, who gets $67,600; plus many, many more.

PENALIZING THE POOR

President Franklin L. Orth said that at the same time the NRS will conduct its Instructor-Junior School, to train potential marksmanship instructors and develop safe shooting habits among the school's junior students. Participation in the school is limited to 100 Instructor Candidates and 300-500 Junior students.

A friendly old dowager sat watching two tiny children build snowmen on her front yard. After they had worked for an hour, she decided they deserved a reward, so she called them in for cookies and milk.

"My, that's a fine looking snowman you're building," she said after the children had launched into the small feast.

"It's a snowman," one of the boys said. "It's a snowman." The dowager chuckled and asked the inevitable: "What's the difference between a snowman and a snowgirl?"

"Snowballs!" the children chorused.

WHITE HOUSE CONFIDENTIAL Johnson Briefs His Labor Allies

Washington, D. C.: - If Lyndon Johnson hadn't said he wasn't running, you wouldn't know the difference. Not in the White House last Tuesday afternoon, you couldn't. He was in one of those warm and confiding moods especially at that moment when he admitted never having met Thomas Jefferson personally.

It was the old Lyndon Johnson because he was with old friends - the 150 editors of official labor papers. They had shuttled over in three buses from the Hotel Statler about 4:30 p.m. after their biennial conference with Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz.

Mr. Johnson just would not think of permitting them to leave the capital without a through briefing on the world in general, and in particular what he thinks of George Meany whom he affectionately called "The Rock."

For 40 minutes, there in the East Room, while the government's high command waited outside, Mr. Johnson briefed the labor journalists on the state of the union, the world, and the presidential campaign.

Most of this added up to his belief that Hubert Horatio Humphrey is one of the grand men of history, loyal, indefatigable and very compassionate.

"I thought I had been a particularly good vice president, working so hard they had tried to slow me down," said the President. "I would rate myself, however, about a B."

"But I rate Hubert Humphrey an A. He has been our greatest vice president since Thomas Jefferson. I did not know Jefferson personally but I'll accept what the historians say. Hubert has been the best since then."

Then with mock anger he said he resented the United Press International report that at the Ladies Garment Workers convention he had virtually endorsed the vice president for the presidential nomination.

This he would not do, he averred, since he had taken himself out of politics.

Then as a not so whimsical footnote, Mr. Johnson added that "whoever the next president is, even if he is a Republican, God forbid, I hope he will carry on the policies I've been working for in this administration . . . and, in his inaugural speech, will talk of the record of the great society and dedicate himself to follow this program."

There were sorrowful refrains in the President's chatty discourse with his friends. He

Part of the answer could be they have had to fight every inch of the way all of their life. This has made them tough, dedicated and not easily discouraged by hard knocks. Then too, they can see the majority of all colors and kinds are working up to the fact they are on the eve of becoming a minority and are looking for dependable allies.

LIBERTY VS. IMAGE
In America today, the creation of imagery has become an art and a science. Experts in image-building draw large salaries for their services. Sometimes severe criticism is voiced of image-building on television and in other advertising media - but there is nothing wrong with advertising. It appears that many of the frequent attacks on advertising are motivated by a contempt for the personal enterprise system itself.

It is notable that when advertising and public relations efforts are directed toward building the image of a public figure who is critical of our personal enterprise system, there is no such wholesale condemnation of image-building. Those who attack our American institutions often enjoy a favorable image in "sophisticated" circles.

On the other hand, one who believes in truth over consequences does not always fare so well. The patriot who is opposed to communism, who points out that the socialistic economic system cannot even feed its captive people, often finds his image besmirched with criticism.

In recent years, some people here and in other countries have actually shunned the pro-freedom, pro-truth, pro-American image, because they have not wished to share the brunt of the attack against it.

But one must wonder what needs to be improved about the image of a person who advocates individual liberty or a person who speaks out in defense of a system which has produced the greatest standard of living the world has ever known. There is really nothing wrong with the image of truth over consequences. HLH.

Then as a not so whimsical footnote, Mr. Johnson added that "whoever the next president is, even if he is a Republican, God forbid, I hope he will carry on the policies I've been working for in this administration . . . and, in his inaugural speech, will talk of the record of the great society and dedicate himself to follow this program."

There were sorrowful refrains in the President's chatty discourse with his friends. He talked sadly of the submarine Scorpion. He took them close to his family bosom by quoting from a letter to Lynda from her husband Marine Capt. Charles Robb, whose company had lost 14 men in action. Peace, he said, like his family, was close to his heart.

Then in came the vice president, who sat in the rear for a while, not wanting to cut in on his chief. Later, Johnson called him up front.

And so on to the reception room where Lyndon Johnson spent 22 minutes posing, in turn, with each labor editor so the picture could be run in union publications with circulations totaling millions.

Why this tour de force? Many reasons. This is a complex and moody man. At one turn in the one-way conversation, he snorted, "Retire, a lot of papers say I'm giving up the presidency to retire." But, he said, by no means will he retire into obscurity. He'll have his say.

Perhaps he has had second thoughts on leaving public life entirely.

Perhaps he needs these monologues and dialogues to bolster m as he contemplates leaving the strip between the Hill and the Rose Garden.

The other Sunday morning, after the tumultuous, almost hysterical reception given him by 1,000 ladies garment workers delegates in Atlantic City's Convention Hall, he telephoned the union's president, "Lou Stulberg. Mr. Johnson thanked Stulberg for the gala and said it had given him the lift he needed."

Perhaps he sought the same stimulus from the 150 labor editors for whom he had prepared a table as lavish and heavily laden as his praise for Mr. Humphrey and Willard Wirtz ("the best labor secretary in history").

These are imponderables. But it is certain that Mr. Johnson is well aware that labor's massive machinery is now in its highest gear and his to command. Mr. Johnson well knew of the AFL-CIO crash programs of telephone squads and campaign specialists setting back Bob Kennedy in Oregon that very day.

He - more than many other national leaders - understands to full impact of that machine and realizes it is the most powerful campaign mechanism, computer and all, in the land.

And so, far whatever other reasons, he did take almost an hour and a half out of a horrendous day, filled with reports from Paris negotiator Vance, from the Vietnam front, horrendous day, filled with reports from Paris negotiator Vance, from the Vietnam front.

Whatever else Lyndon Baine Johnson has retired from today, he has not retired from tomorrow's politics.

Athletics High Priced

NEW YORK (AP)—"It's like having 280 kids in college at the same time," one athletic director of a large Midwest university groaned. "It's a financial back-breaker."

College athletics are in a money bind. They have become a high-priced, multimillion-dollar business on most campuses. Costs have multiplied in the last decade. Football, once the breadwinner, no longer pays the freight.

Business managers—with a few exceptions, such as at Alabama and Notre Dame—are tightening their belts and putting in new orders for red ink.

Notre Dame's athletic budget has risen from $900,000 in 1963 to $2,000,000 in 1968-69 but it manages to operate in the black. Michigan State has seen its sports outfit mushroom from $147,000 in 1947 to $1,634,000 in 1967, an increase of 1,100 per cent.

In the Big Ten, long the symbol of big time college football, six of the ten members are reported operating at a loss. In the Big Eight, Kansas' budget has risen from $850,000 to $1.4 million in four years.

Most of the sky-rocketing cost is purely economic, like the housewife's grocery list. The flashy gear to outfit one player runs around $150, quadruple what it was a few years ago. Jet travel costs more. Hotel and food prices have escalated.

The heavy burden, however, lies in the housing, feeding and educating of athletes on the cuff, so to speak. They are the players on grants-in-aid. They are given a free college education for their exploits on the field. In some cases, they are unlimited and run from $1,500 to $3,000 per year for each athlete.

Despite skyrocketing costs, many institutions, in order to keep pace with the escalation of big time college sport, have found it necessary to invest in giant, modern athletic complexes costing millions.

Purdue has just unveiled a new $17 million field house. Michigan's similar plant cost $14 million. Indiana has a new stadium and has authorized a new field house.

Notre Dame is completing an $8.6 million convocation and athletic building. Tennessee has one of the most modern sports plants in the country. Alabama has just opened a Sports Coliseum that makes the Taj Mahal look like Tobacco Road.

"These are not luxuries but necessities," argues a spokesman for the NCAA headquarters in Kansas City. "They are built to fill the needs of an exploding campus population."

Purdue's enrollment jumped from 12,700 in 1957 to 24,140 in 1967. The Big Ten, long symbolic of big time football, has seen its total enrollment jump 50 per cent in six years, with a present average of more than 29,000.

Michigan State has 38,100 students, Ohio State 31,800. On the Pacific Coast, Washington, UCLA and California are pushing 30,000.

Season Tonight

Potlatch's Connie Mack baseball team opens defense of its Black River league title tonight. It treks to Puxico to face Jim King and the Puxico Connie Mackers.

Returning off last year's fifth place national finishers will be Mike Garner, Gary Owens, Wayne Limbaugh, Bruce Farris and Roger McDaniel.

Potlatch is 1-1 on the season, losing to Cape Legion Saturday night.

RON JAYNES

Sports Corner

N. P. McDaniel, coach of the Potlatch Connie Mack baseball team will again conduct a summer baseball school.

Erwin and Giersberg were named captains.

Baseball letters were presented to 16 players. They were: fourth award—Jim Callaway of Little Rock and Jim Burke of Cohocton, N.Y.; third award—Jim Mueller and Dana Ryan, both of St. Louis, Mo. and John Ford of Hornersville, Mo.; second award—Rusty Bourg of St. Louis, Mo., Criss McGuire of Nashville, Kan. Callaway was named captain.

Six golfers were named monogram winners. They were: fourth award—Marlin Shipman of West Memphis; third award—Mike Mitchell of Jacksonville; second award—James Hieber of Jonesboro and Mike Stropp of Malden, Mo.; first award—James Mills of Jacksonville and Kenneth Southern of Wynne. Shipman was chosen as captain.

Five lettermen were named in tennis with second-year awards going to Richard Brooks of Poplar Bluff Mo., and Jack Carson of Helena. First-year awards were presented to Brett Baker of Kennett, Mo., Joel Campbell of Hot Springs and Tim Walters of Jonesboro. Brooks was named captain.

Baseball attendance was down in both the National and American Leagues for Memorial Day attractions.

A total of 167,714 fans saw games across the country with the largest crowd at New York where 28,197 watched the Yankees split a holiday doubleheader with Washington.

Last year seven doubleheaders helped attract 285,918 fans. This year there were only two twin bills—the one at New York and a novel morning doubleheader at Pittsburgh between the Pirates and New York Mets which attracted 19,779.

The nice thing about crappies is they seem to come by the case.

Catch one. Catch a dozen. That's the way crappie fishing goes. This oversized member of the panfish family not only provides plenty of action, but tastes so well in the frying pan that he deserves the attention of every angler who picks up a rod and reel.

Since crappies run in schools, where you find one, you will usually find them in great numbers. The quickest way to locate a "bed" is by trolling a small lure or minnow very slowly, covering a wide expanse of water. Every often they'll congregate in sports offshore where they would be difficult to locate by any other means.

In addition to trying various areas, it is wise to troll at different depths, generally between 6 and 15 feet. Since almost every warm water lake contains panfish, patience will eventually pay off.

When a single fish is located, cut the motor and cast in all directions around the boat to find the main school. When you nit it, you'll know soon enough. Flaties are always hungry. When fishing drops off, this is the signal the school has moved on, and is your cue to resume probing again.

The second way to discover crappies is preferred in some quarters, but frowned on in others. Simply joined up with other boats which are working over known beds. Crappie fisherman, like their quarry, are usually an accommodating lot.

So while trout and bass are enjoying the publicity, sneak off for a day of crappie fishing. This little rascal seldom lets you down.

Cardinals Back On Top; Marichal Books Ninth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A new page in the calendar hasn't changed Juan Marichal's habits, but Willie Stargell and the St. Louis Cardinals are busting out all over.

Marichal became the first nine-game winner in the majors Sunday, shacking Los Angeles on three hits for his fifth straight victory since May 7 as the San Francisco Giants cuffed the Dodgers 5-1.

Stargell, notorious for his June batting rambages, belted six hits, including a pair of homers, and knocked in six runs as Pittsburgh divided a doubleheader with Atlanta, winning the opener 8-4 before bowing 10-5.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, soared back into the National League lead after 11 days off the pace by sweeping a double header from the New York Mets 6-3 and 3-2.

Cincinnati trimmed Philadelphia 5-3 and the Chicago

Cubs took Houston 3-2 in 12 innings in other National League games.

Marichal, 9-2, turned in his strongest performance of the year on the way to his fifth complete game triumph since Houston beat him 7-1 nearly a month ago. The Giants' ace blanked the Dodgers on two scattered hits until Wes Parker homered in the ninth.

Jim Hart and Dick Dietz each drove in two runs as the Giants punished loser Don Sutton and three relievers with a 13-hit attack.

Stargell hiked his batting average 23 points to .302 and grabbed the league lead in homers, with 10, and RBI, with 30, while wearing out Atlanta pitching. The big outfielder, who has homered in four consecutive games, delivered four runs in the first game with two singles, a double and a homer.

His two-run homer and a bases-empty shot by Roberto Clemente gave the Pirates a 3-0 first inning lead in the nightcap, but the Braves, led by Deron Johnson and Felipe Alou, rebounded behind a 17-hit barrage to gain the split.

Johnson cracked four singles and drove in two runs in a five-run seventh inning flurry that sent the Braves ahead to stay. Alou, who had four hits in the first game, contributed three more singles. He drove in the tying run and scored the go-ahead run in the seventh and singled again in the eighth to start a three-run insurance burst.

Roger Maris scored the winning run from first base on Orlando Cepeda's pop fly single in the seventh inning of the second game at New York, enabling the Cardinals to run a winning string to five games and move one-half length ahead of the Giants. Atlanta is one game behind in third place.

Dick Simpson's two-run homer and two-run singles by Mike Shannon and Tim McCarver backed Bob Gibson's strong pitching in the opener.

Jim Maloney stopped Philadelphia on five hits and the Reds wiped out a 3-2 deficit with three fifth inning runs. Vada Pinson doubled home the tying run with two out in the fifth and scored on Alex Johnson's single before Lee May capped the rally with a run-scoring pinch single.

Ron Santo smacked a gametizing homer in the eighth inning at Houston and delivered a sacrifice fly in the 12th after Billy Williams' one-out triple. The victory left the Cubs in fourth place, just two games off the pace.

Action will be found at all three fields tonight. League play opens for the National and Musial league teams as well as Babe Ruth at VFW field.

Lewis meets Legion in the 6:30 p.m. opener of the National league at Puckett field tonight followed by the Lions-Jaycees game. Musial action at Farris field has Rotary meeting John Deer in the opener, followed by the Odd Fellows-KSIM meeting.

Keep It Beautiful

If America hired people for the job, it would take the largest sort of army to keep our country free of litter. But there's no need to hire anyone. It's a job we can do for ourselves. All of us. Every family that spreads a picnic lunch. Every boatman who cruises the lakes and waterways. Every motorist who uses our roads and highways.

It is the pleasure of the U. S. Brewers Association each year to give its fullest support to the Keep America Beautiful Campaign. Remember. Every Litter Bit Hurts. This is our land. Let's treat it right.

—DE GAULLE SWAN SONG—
Conditions in France are so chaotic that it's almost certain Charles de Gaulle will bow out as President of France on Monday night. He is scheduled to address the nation at that time.

Meanwhile, to combat the increasing anarchy in Paris, French troops have been brought into the suburbs. Even the Foreign Legion, most hard-boiled unit of the French Army, is on the outskirts of Paris.

What worries Washington officials is that student - worker strikes may spread to Belgium, the Netherlands and West Germany. Almost never in French history has a wage increase package proposed by the union leaders been turned down by the rank and file. The recent wage increase engineered by the powerful CGT, the left-wing labor organization, called for a ten per cent wage increase at the top, with 35 per cent at the bottom. Communist leaders inside the CGT, who have secretly sided with De Gaulle, wanted the package accepted.

The nine million workers, who have been occupying French factories for ten days refused. Meanwhile, the country has continued totally paralyzed. There has been no mail in ten days, not a plane or a railroad train moving in that period; with red flags denoting Communism flying over many factories, and black flags denoting anarchism flying over others.

If and when De Gaulle exits, Premise Pompidou will try to form a center-left government, though political observers give him scant chance of remaining in office long.

Wet Jinx Continues For Bootheel Cotton

PORTAGEVILLE - E. B. Nace, University of Missouri specialist at the Delta Research Center here, said it will take two to three more weeks before the full cotton loss can be calculated.

Cotton seedlings were beginning to come up when heavy rains hit the state's delta area. Cool weather accompanied the moisture and seedlings were stricken by fungus.

More than a third of the cotton fields have now been plowed over and are being replanted in soybeans, Mr. Nace said. In other fields farmers are holding out, hoping they can get a good stand.

Corn also has been lost and while some has been replanted it is generally late in the area for the crop to be put in.

Grain sorghums are making a comeback with new varieties which are more resistant to fall rains than were crops planted without much success during the 1950's.

The Bootheel wheat crop is fair, with cool weather and wet ground having its effect on yields.

Soybeans saved many farmers in the Bootheel under even poorer conditions last year, providing them with a cash crop after the cotton was washed out.

This year Nace estimated a new soybean production record will be established even though yields are forecast to be no better than average.

Booklet Will Aid United States Tourists

NEW YORK - "What's Going On Here?" is the title of a new 48-page booklet listing summer annual events in each state of the continental United States. It is available free by writing to: American Telephone & Telegraph Company, "Discover America," Box 14924, Radio City Station, New York, N. Y. 10019. Or it can be picked up at any Bell telephone business office.

The box number is a tip-off to the Discover America theme of "What's Going On Here?" The nation abounds in fairs, festivals, sporting events, music and drama festivals and many other interesting events presented during the summer tourist season. The new booklet lists hundreds of them, state-by-state, with town names and dates. The period covered is May-September.

HemisFair '68 in San Antonio gets a full page, but most events are covered by short descriptions, such as: CROW AGENCY, MONTANA. "Reenactment of Custer's Last Stand," June 28-30. Real Indians in full battle regalia led by Chief Gall and Crazy Horse ride out to the identical strip of land where Custer met his fate. The Seventh Cavalry in authentic costumes reenacts the battle.

WILDWOOD, NEW JERSEY. "National Marbles Championship," June 16-21. The winners from the 25 regional marbles contests will compete for the national championship.

While better-known and long-established events are covered in the booklet, some of the listings come as surprises.

"Steamboat Days and Dixieland Jazz Festival" takes place June 10-15, not in New Orleans but Pella, Iowa. One of the attractions listed for the "Jour De Fete" in Ste. Genevieve, Mo., (an early French settlement) is a German beer garden. Ferdinand, Ind., offers a "Huge Picnic With Turtle Soup" Sept. 1. The Camptown Traces are still being run annually in May in Ashland, Va. Tennessee lists a couple of whimsical-sounding vents, with the "International Banana Festival" Sept. 27-30 in South Fulton, and "Hillbilly Homecoming" in Maryville, July 4-6.

Included in the booklet is the name and address of each state's department responsible for tourist information.

A sonnet is a lyric poem of 14 lines.

Rogers For Congress

The race for the Congressional seat of Paul C. Jones reached a peak on the deadline for filing for the position when a total of fifteen men had entered the race. Twelve Democrats and three Republicans were vying for the seat.

The one candidate for the job who stands head and shoulders above the "crowd of candidates" is B.F. Rogers. Rogers has had a great amount of experience in government work as he has been Mayor of the city of Caruthersville for almost eleven years and Pemiscot County collector for three terms.

In these elected positions Rogers has worked with state and federal officials to the point that he is well known in Washington as well as in his own state capitol in Jefferson City. He has learned about and worked with many government programs and officials which have given him the kind of understanding that will be invaluable in Congress.

Mayor Rogers is a man who meets problems head-on and has the capabilities to solve them. He does not duck an issue or an unpleasant situation because it is easier to look the other way. He is a man of strong moral character and one who will stand up for what he feels is right. Voters in the Tenth District can rest assured that if B.F. Rogers is elected to Congress he will do everything in his power, and sometimes even more, to represent his people and his District.

The Democrat-Argus is endorsing B.F. Rogers in his campaign for Congress. This is something that has seldom been done by the county paper of Pemiscot County, endorsing a political candidate. But this man is qualified and capable of representing the people in the Tenth Congressional District better than any of the other candidates who have filed, better than anyone we can think of.

Rogers has proved his ability as an administrator by putting the city of Caruthersville on a firm financial foundation after many years of being in heavy debt and not making civic improvements. Rogers has paid off the old debts and has, at the same time, been able to pay cash for a new municipal building, done many miles of street work, built a new city-owned water pumping station, the city is just finishing the largest civic improvement in its history, a massive sewer project which will leave something less than one per-cent of the city with no city sewers, and done much towards industrial development in the city.

Much is said now about the need for industrial development. Rogers has known this need for many years, and has done something about it. He was instrumental in bringing the big Colson Corporation Plant to Caruthersville. Through his foresight and interest, Caruthersville was the first community in the state to use the General Obligation Bond Issue law to attract industry.

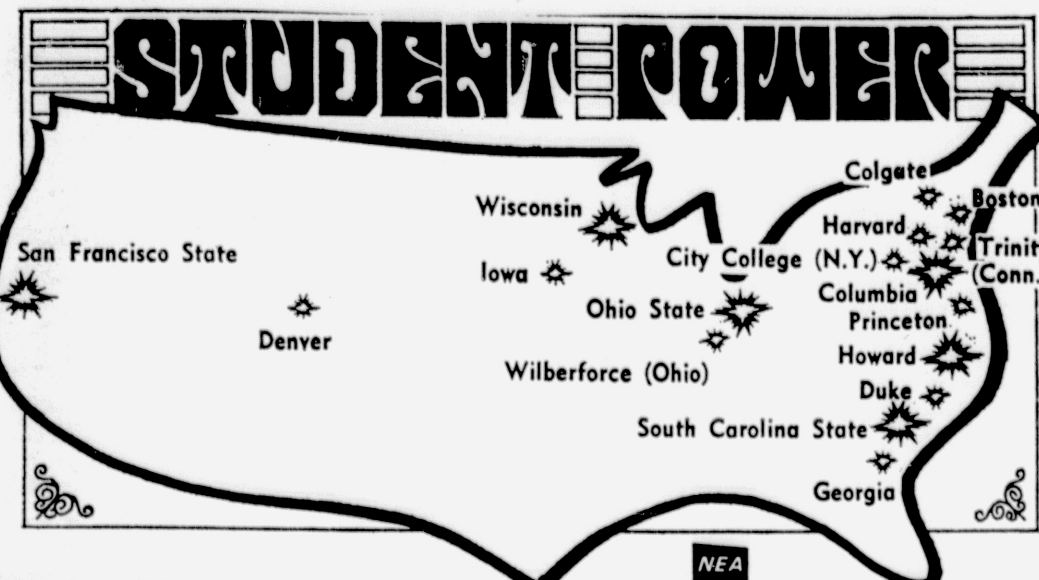

The Brown Shoe Company has, since he has been mayor, moved from their old original plant to a new, larger building which is one of the most modern shoe producing facilities in the world. The Caruthersville Shipyard has come to Caruthersville. Industrial development is not new or unknown to B.F. Rogers.

He is a successful businessman, having owned and operated a farm equipment dealership, an auto agency, a grocery store, rental property, and is presently engaged in his first love, farming. By sending Rogers to Washington District farmers can rest assured that he will support their best interests because he is one of them.

Rogers is thrifty with tax money as can be shown by the fact that even with all of the improvements the city of Caruthersville has experienced since he has been mayor, there has been no city tax increase. City employees have been given pay raises and city operating expenses have gone up in his almost eleven years as mayor, and with the help of his city council, these things have all been paid for, still, with no increase in city taxes.

B.F. Rogers is the man to fill the seat of Paul C. Jones in Congress. He can help the Tenth District in many ways. All he needs is the opportunity to show what he can do for the District.

Violence at Columbia underscores a drastic change on the American scene in recent years — transformation of the college campus from an academic retreat insulated from the turmoil of the world outside to a hotbed of increasingly violent "activism." Causes of student action vary from serious national issues such as race and Vietnam to various definitions of student rights to a sit-in supporting pay increases for campus service employees (at Duke). Map locates the major and some of the minor upheavals of the past six months.

conducting an extensive advertising campaign in national magazines to promote Missouri, it has also been encouraging Missourians to see their own state first.

To supplement the ads that ran in 300 Missouri newspapers, the Commission has begun spot television and radio ads. Davis said that advertising within the state's boundaries is an area that needs attention and "there has been a great lack in the past of encouraging travel in the state by our own residents."

Davis emphasizes the fact that this increased spending is in no way wasteful. "Money that is intelligently spent is not an expenditure, but an investment." He is encouraged by the fact that the people are starting to realize what promoting Missouri can mean in long-range increased revenue.

Although he realizes that Missouri cannot have a year-round tourist season like California or Florida, he wants to see it increased to at least eight or nine months. Davis will try to begin a fall tourist season in Missouri, built around the theme "See Missouri When It Is Most Beautiful." The campaign will be aimed solely at Missourians, encouraging them to get out and see Missouri in autumn and to also get in some late season fishing.

FEDERAL FUND ASSIST GIVEN FOR STATE'S RECREATION AREAS

Many outdoor recreation areas in Missouri are being developed now with matching money from the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund. The State Inter-Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation, made up of the heads of 13 state agencies, meets once a month this year to consider applications from state agencies and local governments seeking federal recreation money.

Since the Council was formed in 1966, it has approved more than $4 million in grants, half of that total going to local funds for its project. If an application is approved by the State Inter-Agency Council, it is forwarded to the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation in Ann Arbor, Mich. If federal approval is granted, the funds are sent to the Council to be passed along to the local government. Expenses of administering the grants are paid by the state.

A. Basye Vanlandingham II, project consultant, said the Council gives priority to requests for funds to acquire land. At present there is a backlog of applications for more than $1 million in projects that have to be funded.

"We welcome applications for these federal matching funds, but there is now a one to two year wait," Vanlandingham said. "The best chance a local government has to get its application approved and receive a grant is to ask for funds for land acquisition."

REGIONAL PARKS PLAN NOW IN OPERATION

Early last month, Governor Warren E. Hearnes dedicated the first of three newly-created regions of the Missouri State Park Board, at Brookfield. Other regional centers at Festus and Lebanon will be dedicated later.

Under the new regional plan, three supervisors will be responsible for the planning, organizing and direction of maintenance of the parks under his supervision. Hearnes cited this as an effort to get the government closer to the people. "The Hearnes said the statewide park program has been expanded greatly in the past few years which increased funds and a record number of park visitors. Funds have also been provided for a new Park Ranger program whereby rangers will be available to assist and protect guests to make their visit more enjoyable."

The Prayer from The Upper Room

"Do you seek great things for yourself? See them not." (Jeremiah 45:5, RSV)

PRAYER: Lord, make us attentive to Thy voice, obedient to Thy summons, dedicated to Thy purposes for mankind. In the spirit of the Savior we pray. Amen.

An unusually heavy rain fell at Sikeston and generally over the district Sunday. The total here was 3.3 inches, the rain falling almost continuously throughout the day Sunday.

Indications are that the yield at the Mary Jane Peach orchard, the price of Southeast Missouri fruit growers, will be big again this year. The orchard, which has 50,000 trees of various ages, is located between Sikeston and Blodgett.

At a meeting of the Sikeston city council last night, City Clerk Stevenson was directed to solicit bids for the paving of Malone avenue from its connection with State Highway 60 at Prairie street to the Frisco tracks.

Daughter Told to Tell Mother to Omit Gloom

Dear Ann Landers: Right now my head feels as if it will burst. My mother just left. I need to know what to do about her daily visits which leave me depressed, drained and half sick.

The minute Mother sits down she begins to report on the illnesses and tragedies of relatives, friends and neighbors. Every story she tells is like a movie. She has an eye and an ear for detail that is uncanny. Mother makes you feel every ache and pain of the person she is describing. She'd rather go to the hospital to see a sick person than go to a party.

Last month Mother attended seven funerals. (Only one was a relative.) Right now I am so down in the dumps I could die. I can do nothing to alleviate her hairdresser's agony (her small daughter is dying of leukemia). I can't help her neighbor whose only son lost both legs in Vietnam. Last week Mother awakened me at midnight to tell me about a car accident in which four people were killed. She had heard it on the radio. I didn't know the people and neither did she — but "Isn't it AWFUL?"

I love my mother and I don't want to be disrespectful, but I just can't listen anymore. Do I owe it to her? Would I be a bad daughter if I told her I didn't want to hear her daily reports of tragedy and death? Please advise me, Ann. — BLUER THAN BLUE

knocked me out. How about you? — GALATEA

Dear Gal: Sorry, yes. But it doesn't knock me out. I'm mystified as to why you attach so much importance to it.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with — but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

If You Were the Judge

Unconscious Person Cannot Be Responsible

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Herman was in the habit of getting his exercise and his rest at the same time. An inveterate sleepwalker, he was apt to get up in the middle of the night and go do-si-doing off for a little stroll. One such night, however, he took along a gun. And, meeting a late-nighter on the street, he shot him.

In a matter of minutes, the police were on the scene and sleepwalking Herman was hauled off to jail charged with shooting the hapless late-nighter.

"We caught him red handed," the police pointed out in court. "The gun was still smoking when we nabbed him."

"While I may have been holding the gun," was Herman's answer, "it wasn't me who shot it. It was my subconscious that pulled the trigger. Certainly, a man can't be blamed for what he does when he's walking in his sleep?"

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you jail Herman for shooting the late-nighter?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that it is a well recognized principle of criminal law that if a person is unconscious at the time he commits a criminal act, he cannot be held responsible for that act.

Today is Monday, June 3 the 154th day of 1968. There are 211 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1940 the Allied evacuation from Dunkerque, France, was completed. Some 337,000 British, French and Belgian troops had been safely transported to ports in England.

On this date: In 1621, the Dutch West India Company received a charter for New Netherlands—now New York.

In 1863 Confederate President Jefferson Davis was born. The birthday is a public holiday in 10 Southern states.

In 1935 the French liner Normandie broke speed records on her maiden voyage, crossing the Atlantic in 4 days, 11 hours.

In 1937 the Duke of Windsor married Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson of Baltimore in Monts. France.

In 1962 a jetliner carrying an Atlanta, Ga., group on an art appreciation tour crashed at Paris, killing 130 persons.

In 1965 U.S. astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White were launched into orbit aboard a Gemini spacecraft for a four-day space flight.

Ten years ago — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev urged expansion of U.S.-Soviet trade and hinted that U.S. credits would be required.

Five years ago — Pope John XXIII died.

One year ago — Negro leaders and city officials in Boston met to try to avert further violence after the city's first racial riot.

SAIGON (AP) - The Vietnamese soldier jogged down the street with three radios stolen from a Chinese store on the fringe of a four-block area filled with Viet Cong snipers.

His sergeant across the street hollered: "Hey, you! Where are you going with all those radios? Why do you take so many? You only need one."

The soldier grinned sheepishly but dropped only one radio. The sergeant ambled across the debris-littered street, picked up the radio and tied it to his field pack.

Lulls in the street fighting now going on in Saigon offer an apparently irresistible temptation to the poorly paid South Vietnamese soldier whose idea of luxury normally is a stolen chicken to supplement his poor food ration.

Tank men who didn't need to worry about the extra weight, "liberated" large numbers of radios. One army truck was seen loading up with television sets.

Several policemen joined in the raids on the radios and other items.

Liquor bottles, shoes and canned food could be seen peeking from many field packs.

Several soldiers passed around British cigarettes, the most expensive smoker's item on the black market. Soldiers displayed shiny new American gas lighters, and some wore gold or silver tie clasps on the front of their dirty uniforms.

Sometimes the looting seems directly tied to how heavy the fighting is, when they are on the move and attacking, the soldiers seem to pass up luxury items although they do scoop up food, soft drinks and cigarettes wherever they find them.

Some of the troops fired bursts from their M16 rifles to break the locks on the steel shutters protecting the fronts of shops in the area.

Many businessmen stuck to their stores to prevent looting even though endangered by the fighting. Since the outbreak of street fighting in Saigon during the Viet Cong's Tet offensive last February, there have been repeated complaints not only of looting but of senseless smashing of whatever could not be carried off.

Vietnamese, Chinese and American homes all have been hit.

The situation has done nothing to improve the government's image or to convince the people of Saigon that the soldiers are their protectors against Viet Cong depredations.

However, there is an added dimension to the looting in Cholon, the Chinese section of Saigon, where much of the current fighting is now taking place. The Vietnamese have always disliked the Chinese because of their domination of commerce. Like some looters in the United States, the soldiers may feel that they are only getting back a little of what has been squeezed out of them in the past.

Congress Eager for Early Adjournment

WASHINGTON (AP) - A weary and uncertain Congress, fearing a negative national mood toward political incumbents, is eager to close out a lethargic session marked by decreasing congressional influence on major issues.

Consequently, Congress resumed work today following a brief Memorial Day break, far behind schedule but determined to finish early and adjourn for the political campaigns.

"Members always talk about adjourning early but this time they really seem to mean it," said one House aide.

Important events beyond Congress' control such as President Johnson's withdrawal from the presidential campaign, Vietnam peace talks, the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and city riots following his slaying have produced wariness and uncertainty in the House and Senate, especially among the majority Democrats. This was clear from numerous private conversations with members.

Although appropriations and other legislative business are far behind schedule, leaders are determined to wind up the session before the start of the national political conventions in August.

Some members are already campaigning.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy showed up in the Senate to vote for a milk protection measure the week before the Wisconsin primary. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has been away since mid-March. Republican Whip Thomas Kuchel, seeking re-election, has been in California since April preparing for Tuesday's primary and Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon was here only twice in May as he fought the contest that last week gave him a slim margin for nomination to a fifth term.

Although much of President Johnson's legislative program appears fated for oblivion, such bills as open housing and interest disclosure have already been passed. Action also is likely on the tax increase, anticrime bill, fish and poultry inspection, higher education extension and manpower training program.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has said adjournment depends on the progress of the appropriations bills.

Only 5 of the 13 money bills for the year starting July 1 have cleared the House, one has passed the Senate and none have reached the White House.

The last time Congress adjourned in August was in 1958. The 1960 and 1964 presidential years featured post-convention sessions of the sort leaders hope to avoid this year.

Chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss., of the House Rules Committee has set a July 9 deadline for his panel to clear bills for the House.

If Congress has to reconvene after the conventions, he said, "We will be harangued with political speeches for the rest of the year."
